100,000 Shriners and Visitors In Kansas City

Fastest Train On Road Goes Sideways In Crash

ATTICA, Indiana, June 2.—Seven persons were killed and nearly forty injured when the St. Louis to New York flyer on the Wabash Railroad derailed a freight train four miles west of here just before midnight last night. The flyer was the fastest train on the Wabash Lines and was an all-Pullman train. A westbound meat train took the siding just west of Williamsport to let the flyer pass.

The engine, baggage car and smoker of the flyer passed the switch safely. The first pullman was derailed and smashed into the engine of the freight train.

Three pullmans and the private car of J. W. Newell, vice president of the Wabash Railroad left the rails. Two of the pullmans turned over and were practically demolished. The engine of the freight train was also practically demolished and scalding steam from the locomotive burned the victims who were pinned beneath the wreckage of the pullmans.

The identified dead:

- G. M. Borchard, engineer of the freight, Peru, Ind.
- Rabbi Goldberg, New York City.
- W. H. Mitchell, St. Louis.
- Mrs. Addie Holloway, Toledo, Ohio.
- Mrs. W. H. Kelley, Decatur, Ill.
- E. Phillips, Detroit, Mich.

The body of one dead is being held at an undertaking establishment here awaiting identification.

Of the injured twelve or more were serious. Some of them may die. Twenty-five of the injured escaped with cuts and bruises and some were not taken to hospital.

The seriously injured were taken to hospitals in Danville, Illinois and Lafayette, Ind., by ambulances which rushed to the scene of the wreck from Attica, Williamsport, West Lebanon and Lafayette.

Another 50,000 Is Expected By Tuesday In City

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 2. The prize song was brought to the Shrine convention by the Murat Temple of Indianapolis. It was:

"There aint no wives with us.
"There aint no wives with us.
"There may be wives with some of you guys,
"But there aint no wives with us."

Murat Nobles marched thru the streets for four hours chanting their proud boast.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 2.—Marching through canyons of brilliant color, Caravans of Shriners arrayed in Oriental Splendor, paraded in the downtown district here today.

Great crowds lined the streets throughout the night, watching the arriving delegations. All efforts to move traffic in the vicinity of the Union Station or along routes to headquarters of the fiftieth annual convention, were given up as hopeless by police. Sidewalks were jammed; wheels of autos were locked and at a standstill for hours.

Traffic officers cleared the way down the middle of the streets. With drums booming and trumpets blaring, the brilliantly arrayed marchers left their trains and followed cocky drum majors, performing juggling feats with balloons, down the flag draped streets.

One hundred thousand visitors were in the city today in the convention business.

Another 50,000 is expected by tomorrow when the pageant will be staged.

Impromptu parades were formed by casual members of various Temples every few minutes. Excited by the sounds of a drummer heading a file and rattling a quick step, the Shriners soon fell into line. A curious mingling of uniforms resulted, the tan and purple velvets of Almas mingling with the green, red and gold of the Islams, and the black and gold of the Kaabas.

In order to clear congested streets, all motor traffic was prohibited on main downtown thoroughfares.

THE DOWNFALL OF A COUNTY.

All over America Sunday, those who attended Sunday school reviewed the story of "The Downfall of a Nation." That nation was inhabited by God's chosen children and related to a period immediately preceding and immediately following the reign of Nebuchadnezzar in Babylon and followed by the rise to world power of Persia and other nations who likewise have perished and witnessed their downfall since that day and time.

The lesson was indeed timely in the United States. Presumptuous is the citizen who believes that his country is immune from the diseases that have corrupted the civil life of nations dead and gone and which will never rise again.

Judah fell for many reasons, but reading carefully the references given in the lesson of Sunday, it becomes very evident that the prime cause of the downfall of the nation was due to bad leadership and the fact that the Bible, which was then the "Book of Law," was kept from the people.

Since the "Book" was hidden from the people by the kings of the period, it may safely be said that the nation fell on account of bad rulers. Josiah, it will be remembered, found the hidden treasure and brought it out for the people and progress was made during his reign. He was a man who lived close to God and the only king in that immediate period who walked with Him. No nation of Bible readers will ever perish.

The lesson, it would seem, was written for this country today, just as it has been written for all countries in days gone by. The kings at that time, all but Josiah, were corrupt and they would not allow any truthful and honest men about them. They corrupted their priests, their entire royal families, their officials and servants in all departments of government, church and state alike. Bad leadership was followed by bad citizenship. The oppressive attitude of national leaders, high and exorbitant taxes for useless purposes, extravagance and waste, a wrong conception of the proper functions of government, the utter ignoring of the citizens in any plans of the government, graft, greed, selfish public service, the confiscation of private property to build golden and stone images to the Sun and Stars and other false gods,—these abuses of power led to the breaking down of the home life, followed by a downfall which crashed against the toppling walls of Jerusalem with such a force as to go echoing down through all the ages that have followed and which will be as distinct as ever when the tide of human affairs reaches topmost height on the shores of eternity. Theirs is an example to all men and to all nations yet to come as well as one for Americans today.

From constable to President, the voters of America must watch their votes and be sure of the men they elevate to honorable office in public service. The times demand that officials be elected who will track the law themselves, worthy examples for the people to follow, and who will not spend their money extravagantly and in sinful waste.

In a country like this, the people have a right to be consulted about how their money shall be expended. To keep silent when officials ignore this fact is to approve and approval in such instances will surely lead in time to oppression; and oppression leads to revolution. The thing to do is to stamp out bad leadership everytime it lifts its dangerous head. Substitute the leadership of men and women, in every office, high and low, who have a high regard for the will of the people and who believe that the offices belong to the people and not the people to the offices.

When Jerusalem fell, the people lived under a monarchy and the monarchs were largely to blame. In this day and time, in the United States Americans live under a republican form of democratic government where each may speak and receive an attentive hearing. The citizens, the voters themselves will be to blame if this nation perishes.

THE EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

A NEW TONGUE IN ENGLAND

From the New York Herald-Tribune

Great Britain just now is filled with business men who are achieving a new tongue.

Up and down the land they go, speaking one with the other, after this fashion:

"Cheerio, old bean—sorry—I mean, hullo, you old son of a fireman, of course, what?"

"What, ho! Dash it all, I didn't mean that. I mean to say, heated canine, how goes the trick and all that sort of thing?"

"Quite a binge, this American slang, what? I mean it's frightfully warm material, no?"

"Corking, I mean top-hole. That isn't quite it, either. What I mean to say is, it's quite the feline's heaven if you should ask me, what?"

The explanation is simple. The British are getting into shape fittingly to welcome the 2000 American advertising men who are going across this summer to participate in the International Advertising convention, which is to be in London.

Thomas McDougall, who is head of the advertising firm of T. McDougall, limited, of London, was in New York recently on his way West, where he is going to tell the advertising men all about it.

"You see," said Mr. McDougall, "last year at Atlantic City after the 1921 convention had been out of the United States and if we muffed it, it would jolly well be the last time. Well, you know, that got our backs up. Rather."

"So everybody in England is frigh- fully keen to show the Americans a good time. The prince of Wales will probably open the convention. It will be held in Albert hall, the biggest hall in London. A fund of $250,000 has been voted for entertainment and

ELINOR GLYN'S MESSAGE ABOUT "THREE WEEKS"

By ELINOR GLYN

(Mrs. Glyn, who aided Director Alan Crosland in filming for Goldwyn Corporation her novel, "Three Weeks," the screen version of which comes to the National Theatre on Thursday for three days, has written the following message to the public).

I do not think it is often that an author can say that his work has been correctly interpreted on the screen—and that is why it gives me so much pleasure to tell of the making of "Three Weeks"—which goes out all over the world just as I meant it to be, the story of a great love, not a sensual record of passion. Friends of the book will now have the opportunity of seeing it in pictures. And, if at first they do not recognize the opening scenes as belonging to the story, it is because they were only vaguely alluded to in one or two chapters, not actually described. But they were in my mind, and they show the home environment of "The Lady," the ugly life in the Palace that she was obliged to endure with the dissolute King, her husband in name only. And when that is established, we then get to Paul's home, Verdwayne Place, in peaceful England, on the eve of his departure for a trip abroad, to forget that humorous boyish calf-love affair with Isabella, the Parson's worthy daughter! And from then onward, the picture moves exactly as the romance in the book moves—only condensed for the exigencies of the silver sheet—but the spirit is there—the spirit of tenderness, love and passion—and love's twin sister—sacrifice, and so to the final tableau, when the spirit has risen beyond earthly things, and brings rest and consolation. The Lady paid the price of breaking the law of man—with her life—but love's eternal flame burned on.

Every scene has been a joy to make. I wrote the scenario in England, and came to California six months ago to begin production. I wanted to get into it all the salient

 "I'll never forget the expression on his face as we dragged him into the car. Oh, that face, the sun light, the happiness in his eyes."

Albert Leeb, the father was in a state of collapse today. The boy's mother was in only a slightly better condition. Neither would talk of the case. Clarence Darrow, Chief Counsel for the parents, took personal charge of legal matters.

Nathan Leopold Sr., was calm but silent. He only shook his head to all questions put to him. Leopold's mother is not living.

Mrs. Jacob Franks, mother of the slain youth, was reported in a serious condition. She is under the care of staff of physicians. Her condition grew worse Sunday. It was said at the Franks home. A friend of the family today said "Mrs. Franks is dangerous."

The county jury, to be sworn today will convene tomorrow. States Attorney Crowe will ask the jury for immediate indictment against Leeb or charges of first degree murder, he said. The trial, by Illinois law, cannot start within 30 days after returning of the indictments.

He asks that every citizen, man and woman alike, carefully investigate his qualifications for this office and assures them that he will give the best of himself in time, in body and in mind, to the courageous enforcement of the laws of the land and for the glory of this district.

Firpo To Meet Harry Wills In Bout In the U.S.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Luis Angel Firpo, South American champion, has accepted terms to meet Harry Wills and will sign articles today. Tex Rickard announced.

Information that Firpo had decided to return to the United States was contained in a cable received by Rickard from Juan Homs, his South American representatives.

Rickard said he didn't care to give any of the details until the contract had been signed. He did admit, however, that he had to meet Firpo's terms. It was reported that Firpo was holding out for $250,000.

Rickard said that Firpo wanted the contest held about August 20 but that he was going to ask him to make the date not later than August 1 to give him time to arrange the contest between the winner and Dempsey in September.

"Now tell me," he said to a reporter, "did you ever go to bed, drop off to sleep and in a few minutes feel a small dagger thrust into you, then another and another until your blood boiled with rage to think of the loathsome pests?"

"This was my experience recently, but I knew just what to do. I didn't fuss. I just called a page and sent him for a bottle of Fly-Flu and sprayed the bed frame and sheets well with it."

"I slept in utter peace after that. When I arose next morning I saw that three had tasted sudden death and I knew that bed was immune from insects for many days afterward."

Fly-Flu is swift and certain death for bedbugs, roaches, ants, moths, flies or mosquitoes when used as directed. Full size bottle and sprayer 50c at drugists, grocers and other dealers. Substitutes can't and won't do the work.

SECURITY

Men and Money Make This Bank Secure.

There are two ways of measuring the strength and standing of a bank. In the first place money resources—capital and surplus—give it Financial Strength. In the second place—and perhaps even more important—are men, the officers and directors. They give the bank character, determine and execute its policies. This is a strong bank, a helpful bank because it has ample resources, and a personnel of proven character and ability.

THE PURPOSE OF THE B. Y. P. U.

The flowers would not be very beautiful without their fragrance. The birds would not be very beautiful without their song, the trees would not be very beautiful without their leaves; neither would the world be very beautiful nor a pleasant place to live without the consecrated lives of our boys and girls.

Realizing this, a few years ago, our leaders began to think of how they could train our young folk. Some one thought of a Baptist Young People's Union. So with much prayer and thought the B. Y. P. U. sprang into life. Her's has been a rugged but a very profitable climb—the training of the minds of our boys and girls to think of the things they can do for our Master instead of the things of the world. Just as essential today it is to train our young as it was in the few days past for Uncle Sam to train our boys to fight in the great world war.

We have as young folk the biggest world battle to wage and must be guided with the Word of God and ready to fight a winning battle to serve others. We study that we may serve. What better Motto can a band of our young folk have? What mother or father could not stand four square for a plan like this?

Then let's boost an organization that has the welfare of our boys and girls so at heart—whose sole purpose is to train to serve—Let's boost the B. Y. P. U.

DAME FASHION FORGETS PUGILIST

"About the only person for whom the fashion designers have not prescribed a glass is the pugilist. But for miliary in the evening—walk, the proper thing for her to wear is fixed. The eye-glass is in the public eye again. But, it seems, a single pair of glasses for a single pair of eyes is wrong, all wrong. For Dame Fashion is to look through them as well as the wearer of them. And thereby hangs the tale of what many may be inclined to regard as the very last word in optical illusions.

"No longer is it merely an aid to vision, an unsightly accessory that has to be tolerated. No longer do folk seek out optometrists to relate their symptoms, try to read lines of pled type, gaze fully at placards bearing futuristic designs and get prescribed a lens that merely makes things look clearer. Oh, no; indeed not. There is much more than that to be considered.

"For there has sprung into being a fashion in eyeglasses. Not only a fashion, but also a whole code of rules and regulations that dictate what kind of glasses one should wear at what kind of functions.

"The optometrist today—so the dictum has it—must be not only a modiste to the eye, fitting it with glasses that most become the particular style of facial architecture confronting him, but a psychologist as well. For instance, if you happen to be afflicted with the Gothic type of face, a countenance that is long and thin as a horse he would in all probability equip you with round lens that impart a sleek, well-fed appearance. And if the style of your beauty ran more to the Roric line, you would most likely get oblong glasses.

"For him who only needs glasses for close work, and that infrequently, the oxford style is suggested as being the most suitable. The oxfords are heavy dark-rimmed glasses that fold up like a knife. Taking them off and putting them on gives one an excellent opportunity to make effective gestures. They impart a decided air of culture and intellectuality to their wearers, and are proving popular with those persons who want to create that sort of impression.

"Moreover, they are made in a number of styles, and the metals used in them are various enough for anyone's taste. Some have elaborately chased nosepieces of green gold; for the antiquarian and archaeologist there is a style with an Egyptian motif in the design. They are also strongly reminiscent of Cleopatra and are highly recommended for vamps posing as intellectuals.

"Women have more varieties of glasses to buy for a correct outfit than do men. They are taking in some measure to bizarre effect, matching their gowns with rims of harmonizing colors. There are also glasses with gray color scheme for those whose hair is silvery.

"Among the more interesting development in the feminine lines are lorgnettes. These glasses, which are elaborately worked out in many instances, are constructed of white gold, green gold and in rarest cases, platinum and are made to resemble pendants. Worn on the end of a ribbon or a chain suspended from the neck, they fold up to a very small size, but when a secret button is pressed, lo, here is the lorgnette. They are distinct adornments and have the advantage of usefulness.

"For an afternoon of bargain hunting, lightweight shell-rimmed glasses with metal bridge are urged as being

HOME DRESSMAKING

Bloomer Dress of Patterned Cotton

Beauty and Service Go Hand-in-Hand

One of the first things to do in selecting a smart bloomer frock is to secure a colorful material. Then it must be made upon simple lines, with a few tucks or so, and worn with a hat of crepe or taffeta.

"Anyone would like a dress of white cotton crepe boldly figured with an apple green dotted square. Three yards are needed to make a frock like the one pictured, because it has bloomers to match. The sleeves are cut in one with the front and back of the dress and the neck is in round outline. These are small hand-run tucks at the front and back.

The three diagrams give the various stages of finishing the lower edges of the bloomers. First, they have to be gathered and made ready for the band. For the band use a straight strip of the material and cut it twice the width that the finished band is to be. Sew the ends of the band together and draw the stitution and laws of the State of Texas, including Chapter 147, Acts of 1913, Regular Session?"

Section 2. That the polling places and presiding officers of said election shall be, respectively as follows: the polling place shall be at the City Hall, in the City of Mexia, and W. B. Kendrick is hereby designated as presiding officer.

Section 4. That the manner of holding said election shall be governed by the general laws of the State of Texas, regulating general elections, when not in conflict with the provisions of the law hereinabove referred to.

Section 5. All voters desiring to adopt a charter so prepared and reported by the Charter Commission shall have printed on their ballot the following:

OFFICIAL BALLOT
"For the adoption of the Charter prepared by the Charter Commission, duly elected on the 18th day of March, 1924, and which was reported by said Charter Commission to the City Commission of the City of Mexia on the 27th day of May, 1924."

Section 8. # Memorial Day Address Delivered To Veterans Here Decoation Day

By OWEN F. WATKINS

(Re-published by Request)

My Friends and Comrades and Honored Veterans of the Southern Confederacy: Once more our great nation has assembled to pay its tribute and respect to its heroes dead. It has been said that a thousand battles on land and sea echo and proclaim to the world the glory of their valiant deeds. Under the quiet sod or beneath the murmuring waves their bodies rest in peace, but in the destinies of men their souls keep marching on. Because of their devotion and loyalty to the cause of freedom and liberty, our lives are free. Because of their supreme sacrifice in meeting death with a smile for the cause of our democratic institutions, our nation lives. Because of their will, progress and gladness to make for their cherished ideals the greatest sacrifice that can be made by man, to lay their lives down for their country, the whole world is blessed, and those institutions which they so gladly died for have been perpetuated forever in the thesis and science of government.

When we think of the many things they did, the hero hosts seem mighty in our midst. When peril threatened and the foes of the cause of freedom, humanity and liberty brought on the conquest and their country called, how gladly they made the divine sacrifice and left the primrose paths of peace to spring to arms to make their breasts a barricade against their nation's foes. No sorrow for the loved ones left behind could dim the purpose of their souls. No weariness of march or the long and dreary watch of the night could quell their hearts' desires. No horrors of the bloody battle field or the disease infested trench or gas bomb could beat their courage down.

They fought for us and for us they fell, and the smallest tribute that we can pay to their valor and glory is to pay to them our debt of reverence for their supreme sacrifice. But, my friends, as we pay our tribute to them and revere and honor the memories of the heroes of those conquests for liberty, freedom and humanity, we should not forget their loved ones left behind. No honest tear nor heartfelt sympathy can bring back to them the comfort of those loving hands now gone, or restore the music of their voices now stilled forever. Only the solemn pride of having given more than all the rest is theirs who live to weep, but to them, I would say, for the valiant sacrifice of their loved ones we are all debtors to them, and on this Memorial Day it is our duty to reconsecrate ourselves to patriotic service. Let us be the friend and brother, the son and father, of the bereaved ones left behind, and may we always so live and bear the flag of our country, as did those who now sleep in heroes' graves, and ever place it upon the battlements of righteousness.

It has been said that "this day is sacred with the almost visible presence of those who have gone before us. We honor the memory of those who gave their lives in the service of their country, and those others who since the war have dropped their burdens by the wayside of life and are gone to their eternal rest. May the ceremonies of this day deepen our reverence for our dead. May we renew our pledge of loyalty to our country and our flag, and let us resolve by word and deed to emphasize the privilege and duty of patriotism."

The veterans of the World War have been distinctly honored on this occasion by being joined in the services by the surviving veterans of the Southern Confederacy. There are not many of them left to recount the reminiscences of those chivalrous days that tried men's souls, for their numbers which a score of years ago were in countless legion now have dwindled to a meager handful, and no doubt e'er another memorial day has come and gone some of those who have assembled here will have passed into eternity. Yet, when I watch those men in whose youthful looks of '61 can

The north today recognizes the futility of political coercion and they enclose hands with their southern kinsmen over Mason and Dixon lines in recognition of a state's supremacy in the control of its own civil affairs. This great constellation of states working in harmony to the Constitution of the United States, and yet each retaining distinctly an unrestricted province over its internal conditions, is but an admission of the righteousness of the protest recorded by the Confederacy. May their posterity be awakened to the vital import of their struggle, and when these men who have already crossed that inextinguishable chasm which forever separates the glorious achievements of manhood and vigor from the contented reveries of old age and feebleness and are now calmly resting in the fast receding shades of senility, have passed on to that silent beyond, may we still prolong into the mystic future those immortal principles for which they fought on Shiloh's bloody battle field.

It is but right and fit on occasions of this kind that we should know the purposes that stirred men's souls and caused them to offer and give their lives to their country. I have said before that patriotism is as inherent in human action as religion or character themselves, and to you honored veterans of the Confederacy, may I say that amongst our comrades in the recent World War we found on every side your sons and grandsons fighting for their flag and country in the cause of humanity. We are glad today that the Civil War was settled as it was, and that the American flag is the flag of both those opposing forces who for four years' spring at each others' throats in willingness to give to this, our country, their lives.

On occasions of this kind I wish that we could be moved with the same amount of deep pathos that imbued the soul and spirit of that English bard, Thomas Gray, when he stood in the little village country churchyard and said:

"Can storied urn or animated bust
Back to its mansion call the fleeting breath?
Can Honour's voice provoke the silent dust,
Or Flattery soothe the dull cold ear of death?"

"Perhaps in this neglected spot is laid
Some heart once pregnant with celestial fire;
Hands, that the rod of empire might
have swayed,
Or waked to ecstasy the living lyre.

"But Knowledge to their eyes her ample page Rich with the spoils of time did
ne'er unroll;
Chill Penury repress'd their noble rage,
And froze the genial current of the soul.

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark unfathom'd caves of
ocean bear;
Full many a flower is born to blush

IRENE RICH AND MONTE BLUE PLAY IN SAME PICTURE

Are Co-Stars in Screen Version of "Lucretia Lombard"

"Lucretia Lombard", the screen adaptation of the novel of the same name by Kathleen Norris, is scheduled for a 3-day run at the National Theatre, with Monte Blue and Irene Rich heading a distinguished cast of players.

In Book form, the story enjoyed enormous vogue, being hailed as one of the most striking novels of the past decade. It deals with a young and pretty woman tied down to an old, unlovable curmudgeon of an old man, who is an invalid and needs constant care. As a result, the woman is deprived of all the joys and riches held by life, and feels youth slipping down the retrograde till she meets the man of her heart.

In casting the players, Director Jack Conway and Producer Harry Rapt sifted and considered every star of note, to get true characterizations. Monte Blue and Irene Rich were the pick.

The picture brings out the wretchedness of a loveless marriage. Lucretia, still young and pretty, finds herself cheated, the wife of a confirmed invalid who bullies her. An extra stolen dose of opiate administered by himself ends the life of her husband—and she is free, but only to find herself embroiled in a triangle so hectic that her former difficulties seem as nothing.

How two women battle for the love of a man, and how fate steps in at the eleventh hour, staging a spectacular forest fire to settle the drama, is shown in this Warner Brothers Classic of the Screen.

It is said that no pains have been spared to make "Lucretia Lombard" as great a picture as was a great book. Critics who have already viewed the picture say it is a triumph in every respect.

Monte Blue and Irene Rich will be remembered everywhere for their brilliant work in "Brass", the screen adaptation of Charles G. Norris,

KAREM SHRINERS REACH KANSAS CITY TODAY

With the big steam siren going and the Karem band playing, over 100 Karem Shriners from this section left Sunday out of Waco for Kansas City where they will attend the national Shrine convention this week. The special left at 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

The departure from Waco was preceded by a parade of Shriners and their wives, headed by the Karem Shrine band. Cars which they occupied were decorated in Shrine colors. Members of the Karem delegation will be carried to points of interest in Kansas City in the "Special," the miniature train which created much excitement at the San Francisco convention. A number of stunts have been provided by Karem. This miniature train will play a prominent role in these. The band accompanied the party and will play during the convention, always in the lead of Karem stunts.

W. F. Quebe was in charge of the special train and Potentate E. D. Burchett, well known in Mexia, will head Karem in the convention. The party reached Kansas City at 7 o'clock this morning.

MANUAL TRAINING IN THE HIGH SCHOOL

By G. W. EVANS
In this age of building, inventions, and experiments—an age in which dreamers are trying to work out dreams of great things—it has become necessary for schools and colleges to introduce courses such as agriculture, home economics, manual training and many others to meet the requirements of the children. The directing heads of high schools and colleges realized a long time ago that the child could not be fitted to the school, but that the school must fit the needs of the child. Thus, we have the reason why manual training and other subjects were introduced in the curricula.

Manual training was first offered to the boys of Mexia in the fall of 1921. The equipment consisted of five work benches, with complete sets of individual tools, and five drawing tables with the necessary drawing instruments. On completion of the new high school the board had installed the following equipment: Seventeen new work benches, bench tools for general equipment, five of the most modern wood-working machines, and eight drawing tables. With this equipment the boys of the first and second year classes have constructed several handy and useful articles, a few of which are: Tobacco, waste paper baskets, magazine stands, shoe shine boxes, telephone desk and chair, radio sets, tool cases, finishing room, and a magazine rack for the Mexia Public Library.

The aim in teaching manual training is threefold. First, we try to interest the boy who is a dreamer, the fellow who really does not know just what he wishes to do in life, but who has great ideas that he would like to work out. In other words we try to help him find himself.

The following story illustrates the point: One of the soldiers in the late war was a failure before he went into service; he was injured during the fighting and was returned to America and sent to a vocational school. Here he began working out his dreams and today he is one of the highest paid goldsmiths in the city of Washington.

The second type cannot afford to go to college, is going out into life's work. To this type of boy we hope to give an idea of simple joinery, general construction, and an appreciation of the different wood finishes. He should be able to construct and repair most anything around the home, should be able to select the best building material and furniture.

By doing a course in manual training the third type of boy gets an insight into the several engineering courses offered by colleges and is certainly in position to make a selection that is best suited to his desires and ambitions, when he must make a choice of his life's work.

A course in agricultural mechanics will be offered in the near future, especially for the boys of the rural districts. This course will cover the building and repair of farm necessities.

The work in mechanical drawing prepares the boy for engineering courses if he goes to college and if he does not it will be useful to him in that he will be prepared to make drawings and read plans of most anything he may wish.

Meats we sell comply with all laws of sanitation, you should care for your health's sake. Tidwell's.

GREAT CAST APPEARS IN "THREE WEEKS"

Probably no motion picture cast ever before was selected with so much care as that of "Three Weeks," the Goldwyn studios' film version of Elinor Glyn's famous love story, coming to the National Theatre Monday.

Mrs. Glyn herself came to the Goldwyn studios from London to assist in the filming of her novel, and collaborated with Alan Crosland, the director, in selecting the players.

First came the Queen—one of the most famous characters of modern fiction. She must be beautiful, dignified, mysterious, subtle, with a mixture of fierce Slavic passion, and the repression of a woman worn down by cruelty—but above all, a regal, commanding Queen.

Aileen Pringle, a little known screen actress then, was chosen for the role—not for any "commercial value" her name might carry—but because she was the living, breathing Queen as described by Mrs. Glyn in her novel.

Then "Paul"—tall, handsome, blond typically English—was to be chosen.

The choice—Conrad Nagel, prominent screen leading man, selected not only because he fit the physical requirements of the role, but because he is recognized also as one of the outstanding actors of the screen.

The lesser members of the cast were chosen with equal care. All of the other characters of the story are European, and nearly all are Slavic.

Mr. Crosland and Mrs. Glyn insisted that the players look their parts, and considered scores of actors, both great and unknown, for each role.

John Sampson, noted character actor, was signed as the dissolute, brutal Balkan king. Stuart Holmes and Robert Cain, both finished film players, were cast as "Petrovich" and "Verchoff," the king's unscrupulous aides.

Mitchell Lewis, Dale Fuller and Nigel de Brullier were selected to play the native servants of the Queen, and lend their ability to minor but very difficult roles.

Claire de Lorez, noted screen beauty was brought to Los Angeles from New York to play the part of Mitzi, wild, passionate gypsy girl who charms the king, and indirectly causes the death of the Queen.

H. Reeve-Smith, for years a prominent stage actor of New York, was lured to the screen for the first time in "Three Weeks" and plays a relatively small part as Sir Charles, father of Paul.

Helen Dunbar plays Lady Henrietta, Paul's mother. Joan Standing will be seen as "Isabella," gawky English girl with whom Paul has a "poppy love" affair; Charles Green, as Thompson, Paul's valet, and William Haines, as the Curate, fill out the cast.

Alan Crosland, Jr., five-year-old son of the "Three Weeks" director, appears in one scene as the son of Paul and the Queen.

Well Known Business Man Freed of Twenty Year's of Suffering.

A. W. TAYLOR

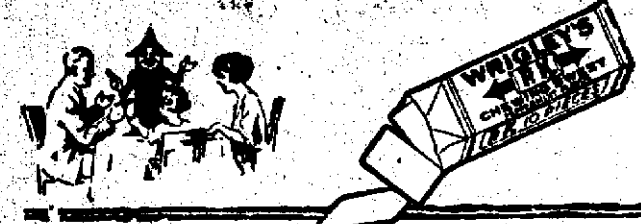

That the sensational new medicine Karnak has relieved him of twenty years of suffering and restored his health after all other means had failed is the astonishing statement of Mr. A. W. Taylor, well known business man residing at 816 East Tenth Street, Oklahoma City.

"I think it is my duty to let the public know what Karnak has done for me," said Mr. Taylor in making public his experience. "For twenty years before I got this remarkable medicine I had not seen a well day, and I frequently had to leave my business and go home to bed. Nothing I ate seemed to digest properly, I was continually bothered with terrific headaches, sluggish liver and constipation, and severe pains extending from my right side to my back kept me in constant torment. I had about made up my mind to undergo an operation to see if it would help me, but a friend got me started to taking Karnak and I would not take anything on earth for what the medicine has done for me. My digestion is splendid, the other troubles are also gone, and I feel better than I have in years and years. I consider Karnak worth its weight in gold."

Mr. Taylor's statement is typical of hundreds of others being made about the famous new medicine.

Karnak is sold in Mexia by the Mexia Drug Co.—(Adv.)

7 KILLED, 40 INJURED, WABASH TRAIN WRECK

100,000 Shriners and Visitors In Kansas City

Fastest Train On Road Goes Sideways In Crash

ATTICA, Indiana, June 2.—Seven persons were killed and nearly forty injured when the St. Louis to New York flyer on the Wabash Railroad sideswiped a freight train four miles west of here just before midnight last night. The flyer was the fastest train on the Wabash Lines and was an all-Pullman train. A westbound meat train took the siding just west of Williamsport to let the flyer pass.

The engine, baggage car and smoker of the flyer passed the switch safely. The first pullman was derailed and smashed into the engine of the freight train.

Three pullmans and the private car of J. W. Newell, vice president of the Wabash Railroad left the rails. Two of the pullmans turned over and were practically demolished. The engine of the freight train was also practically demolished and scalding steam from the locomotive burned the victims who were pinned beneath the wreckage of the pullmans.

The identified dead:

G. M. Borehard, engineer of the freight, Peru, Ind.
Rabbi Goldberg, New York City.
W. H. Mitchell, St. Louis.
Mrs. Addie Holloway, Toledo, Ohio.
Mrs. W. H. Holley, Decatur, Ill.
F. Phillips, Detroit, Mich.

The body of one dead is being held at an undertaking establishment here awaiting identification.

Of the injured twelve or more were serious. Some of them may die. Twenty-five of the injured escaped with cuts and bruises and some were not taken to hospitals.

The seriously injured were taken to hospitals in Danville, Illinois and Lafayette, Ind., by ambulances which rushed to the scene of the wreck from Attica, Williamsport, West Lebanon and Lafayette.

Youthful Students Who Killed Boy Have Backing Of $15,000,000.00

CHICAGO, June 2.—Led by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, the State today was building up its case against Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, 19 year old millionaires' sons, confessed murders of Robert Franks, 14, another son of wealth.

While parents of the two youthful slayers were rapidly taking steps to establish a defense—probably to be based on a plea of insanity—Leopold and Loeb seemed anxious to prove that they deliberately killed young Franks "just for the fun of it."

Chagrined because their murder plot was discovered, the two young law students were anxious to have their story of the kidnapping and killing believed.

The coroner's inquest, started before the confessed slayers were apprehended, was to be continued today.

Clarence Darrow, heading counsel for the "$15,000,000 dollar defense" indicated the course he will follow by objecting to having Leopold and Loeb examined by State Aliensists. The State, Darrow believes, will attempt to prove the boys sane and thus forestall a defense of insanity.

Darrow it is understood will direct

Another 50,000 Is Expected By Tuesday In City

"There aint no wives with us.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 2.—Marching through canyons of brilliant color, Caravans of Shriners arrayed in Oriental Splendor, paraded in the downtown district here today.

Great crowds lined the streets throughout the night, watching the arriving delegations. All efforts to move traffic in the vicinity of the Union Station or along routes to headquarters of the fiftieth annual convention, were given up as hopeless by police. Sidewalks were jammed; wheels of autos were locked and at a standstill for hours.

Traffic officers cleared the way down the middle of the streets. With drums booming and trumpets blaring, the brilliantly arrayed marchers left their trains and followed cocky drum majors, performing juggling feats with balloons, down the flag draped streets.

One hundred thousand visitors were in the city today in the convention business.

Another 50,000 is expected by tomorrow when the pageant will be staged.

Impromptu parades were formed by casual members of various Temples every few minutes. Excited by the sounds of a drummer heading a file and rattling a quick step, the Shriners soon fell into line. A curious mingling of uniforms resulted, the tan and purple velvets of Almas mingling with the green, red and gold of the Islam, and the black and gold of the Kaabas.

In order to clear congested streets, all motor traffic was prohibited on main downtown thoroughfares.

THE DOWNFALL OF A COUNTY.

All over America Sunday, those who attended Sunday school reviewed the story of "The Downfall of a Nation." That nation was inhabited by God's chosen children and related to a period immediately preceding and immediately following the reign of Nebuchadnezzar in Babylon and followed by the rise to world power of Persia and other nations who likewise have perished and witnessed their downfall since that day and time.

The lesson was indeed timely in the United States. Presumptuous is the citizen who believes that his country is immune from the diseases that have corrupted the civil life of nations dead and gone and which will never rise again.

Judah fell for many reasons, but reading carefully the references given in the lesson of Sunday, it becomes very evident that the prime cause of the downfall of the nation was due to bad leadership and the fact that the Bible, which was then the "Book of Law," was kept from the people.

Since the "Book" was hidden from the people by the kings of the period, it may safely be said that the nation fell on account of bad rulers. Josiah, it will be remembered, found the hidden treasure and brought it out for the people and progress was made during his reign. He was a man who lived close to God and the only king in that immediate period who walked with Him. No nation of Bible readers will ever perish.

The lesson, it would seem, was written for this country today, just as it has been written for all countries in days gone by. The kings at that time, all but Josiah, were corrupt and they would not allow any truthful and honest men about them. They corrupted their priests, their entire royal families, their officials and servants in all departments of government, church and state alike. Bad leadership was followed by bad citizenship. The oppressive attitude of national leaders, high and exorbitant taxes for useless purposes, extravagance and waste, a wrong conception of the proper functions of government, the utter ignoring of the citizens in any plans of the government, graft, greed, selfish public service, the confiscation of private property to build golden and stone images to the Sun and Stars and other false gods—these abuses of power led to the breaking down of the home life, followed by a downfall which crashed against the toppling walls of Jerusalem with such a force as to go echoing down through all the ages that have followed and which will be as distinct as ever when the tide of human affairs reaches topmost height on the shores of eternity. Theirs is an example to all men and to all nations yet to come as well as one for Americans today.

From constable to President, the voters of America must watch their votes and be sure of the men they elevate to honorable office in public service. The times demand that officials be elected who will track the law themselves, worthy examples for the people to follow, and who will not spend their money extravagantly and in sinful waste.

In a country like this, the people have a right to be consulted about how their money shall be expended. To keep silent when officials ignore this fact is to approve and approval in such instances will surely lead in time to oppression; and oppression leads to revolution. The thing to do is to stamp out bad leadership everytime it lifts its dangerous head. Substitute the leadership of men and women, in every office, high and low, who have a high regard for the will of the people and who believe that the offices belong to the people and not the people to the offices.

When Jerusalem fell, the people lived under a monarchy and the monarchs were largely to blame. In this day and time, in the United States Americans live under a republican form of democratic government where each may speak and receive an attentive hearing. The citizens, the voters themselves will be to blame if this nation perishes.

THE EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

A NEW TONGUE IN ENGLAND

From the New York Herald-Tribune
Great Britain just now is filled with business men who are achieving a new tongue.

Up and down the land they go, speaking one with the other, after this fashion:

"Cheerio, old bean—sorry—I mean, hullo, you old son of a firearm, of course, what?"

"What, ho! Dash it all, I didn't mean that. I mean to say, heated, canine, how goes the trick and all that sort of thing?"

"Quite a binge, this American slang, what? I mean it's frightfully warm material, no?"

"Corking. I mean top-hole. That isn't quite it, either. What I mean to say is, it's quite the feline's heaven if you should ask me, what?"

The explanation is simple. The British are getting into shape fittingly to welcome the 2000 American advertising men who are going across this summer to participate in the International Advertising convention, which is to be in London.

Thomas McDougall, who is head of the advertising firm of T. McDougall, Limited, of London, was in New York recently on his way West, where he is going to tell the advertising men all about it.

"You see," said Mr. McDougall, "last year at Atlantic City after the 1924 convention had been out of the United States and if we muffed it, it would jolly well be the last time. Well, you know, that got our backs up. Rather!"

"So everybody in England is frightened to show the Americans a good time. The prince of Wales will probably open the convention. It will be held in Albert hall, the biggest hall in London. A fund of $250,000 has been voted for entertainment and all that sort of thing. We're going to give 'em a champagne supper. Rather—And they're going to have garden parties at Lady Astor's place and Lord Rothermere's and play golf at St. Andrews and go through the Trossachs, and have a fearfully strenuous time all round.

"You've no idea how frightfully keen everybody is. I was at a meeting in Bradford; that's in Yorkshire, you know; woolen merchants and all that sort of thing. Jolly old solid citizens, my word, yes. And they had got a lot of these American songs we had at Atlantic City last year. I say! You should have heard those chappies sing. Yes, We Have No Bananas! Absolutely baffles description, sure you."

"Oh, yes; and they're to get the freedom of the city of London and all the lord mayors of the biggest British cities will give them official welcomes and all that sort of thing."

He was asked, "will the lord mayors wear their official robes?" Now a British lord mayor in his official robes is more magnificent than the doorman at the Astor. The tuxedo ensemble includes velvet, ermine, gold chains fit to hold the Leviathan's anchors and hats with feathers in 'em.

"What?" said Mr. McDougall. "Ho, of course. My word, yes, Ra-ther!"

"And," this report's voice trembled partly from trepidation—"will the lord mayors in their official robes sing—Yes, We Have No Bananas?"

Mr. McDougall considered this matter for a while, pondering it. He said: "Well, I'm afraid you rather have me there, what! I mean, I really can't possibly make a definite promise as to that. You see I really haven't been informed. But, I think it might be arranged. You know everybody's frightfully keen on making the thing a success. They are, really."

ELINOR GLYN'S MESSAGE ABOUT "THREE WEEKS"

By ELINOR GLYN

(Mrs. Glyn, who aided Director Alan Crosland in filming for Goldwyn Corporation her novel, "Three Weeks," the screen version of which comes to the National Theatre on Thursday for three days, has written the following message to the public.)

I do not think it is often that an author can say that his work has been correctly interpreted on the screen—and that is why it gives me so much pleasure to tell of the making of "Three Weeks"—which goes out all over the world just as I meant it to be, the story of a great love, not a sensual record of passion. Friends of the book will now have the opportunity of seeing it in pictures. And, if at first they do not recognize the opening scenes as belonging to the story, it is because they were only vaguely alluded to in one or two chapters, not actually described. But they were in my mind, and they show the home environment of "The Lady," the ugly life in the Palace that she was obliged to endure with the dissolute King, her husband in name only. And when that is established, we then get to Paul's home, Verdwayne Place, in peaceful England, on the eve of his departure for a trip abroad, to forget that humorous boyish calf-love affair with Isabella, the Parson's worthy daughter! And from then onward, the picture moves exactly as the romance in the book moves—only condensed for the exigencies of the silver sheet—but the spirit is there—the spirit of tenderness, love and passion—and love's twin sister—sacrifice, and so to the final tableau, when the spirit has risen beyond earthly things, and brings rest and consolation. The Lady paid the price of breaking the law of man—with her life—but love's eternal flame burned on.

Every scene has been a joy to make. I wrote the scenario in England, and came to California six months ago to begin production. I wanted to get into it all the salient

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the late ex-president, fell and fractured a small shoulder bone on a recent visit to friends in Virginia. Mrs. Evelyn Sue Rickner has been found not guilty in Annapolis, Md. of the murder of her husband, Lieut. James G. Rickner, U. S. A., whom she shot to death in his quarters there. Daniel G. Reid, American tin plate king, has returned to New York from Europe with his personal physician, valet, barber, companion and four attendants, after a vain search for health. He has not slept a restful night in two years and smokes thirty cigars daily to steady his nerves. Countess Moroni, formerly Eleanor Jarvin, of New Orleans, and noted Southern beauty, is soon to marry Sir Mortimer Davis, Canadian tobacco king and one of the Dominion's wealthiest men. points of the book, and yet carry it along with that sustained interest, which is so necessary in a cinema. And with the able assistance of Mr. Carey Wilson, we made what I hope is a live-wire continuity together.

Then perfect types had to be found for the various parts. I never had a doubt about Aileen Pringle for "the Lady." She represents exactly what I want my Queen to mean—a person of dignity and refinement, with the passion of the Slav, and none of the vulgar vamp allurements which some mistaken people wove into the idea of the part.

Loeb is distantly related to the Franks boy. He had frequently played tennis with him. Their homes were nearly across the street.

"The only thing that comes to my mind now is the picture of that happy little boy, swinging down the sunlit side walk, swaying from side to side in his happiness—his innocence.

"I'll never forget the expression on his face as we dragged him into the car. Oh, that face, the sun light, the happiness in his eyes."

Albert Loeb, the father was in a state of collapse today. The boy's mother was in only a slightly better condition. Neither would talk of the case. Clarence Darrow, Chief Counsel for the parents, took personal charge of legal matters.

Nathan Leopold Sr., was calm but silent. He only shook his head to all questions put to him. Leopold's mother is not living.

Mrs. Jacob Franks, mother of the slain youth, was reported in a serious condition. She is under the care of staff of physicians. Her condition grew worse Sunday, it was said at the Franks home. A friend of the family today said "Mrs. Franks is dangerously ill."

The county jury, to be sworn today will convene tomorrow. States Attorney Crowe will ask the jury for immediate indictment against Loeb on charges of first degree murder, he said. The trial, by Illinois law, cannot start within 30 days after returning of the indictments.

Americans in private life and in public service.

Among the thousands of voters in these two counties, Mr. Aultman has impressed himself accordingly upon the mind of the public and scores of citizens from all walks of life and from every age, with whom he discussed his prospective candidacy in the past few days have encouraged him to enter the campaign, while those who know him and whom he was unable to see will be glad to learn of his candidacy.

He is certain to make a strong bid for the office to which he aspires and which his friends have aspired for him and if elected will strive without fear or favor to the end that Limestone and Freestone counties may continue to win the applause of true and law abiding citizens who feel and know that government exists for the protection of the people and that constitutions and laws were written to be kept by the whole people for the people.

He asks that every citizen, man and woman alike, carefully investigate his qualifications for this office and assures them that he will give the best of himself in time, in body and in mind, to the courageous enforcement of the laws of the land and for the glory of this district.

I was troubled with gas, heartburn, dizzy spells and, in fact, about all the disagreeable symptoms that come from a disordered stomach. I only weighed 97 lbs., and was so thin, weak and nervous that life was miserable.

Firpo To Meet Harry Wills In Bout In the U.S.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Luis Angel Firpo, South American champion, has accepted terms to meet Harry Wills and will sign articles today. Tex Rickard announced.

Information that Firpo had decided to return to the United States was contained in a cable received by Rickard from Juan Homs, his South American representative.

Rickard said he didn't care to give any of the details until the contract had been signed. He did admit, however, that he had to meet Firpo's terms. It was reported that Firpo was holding out for $250,000.

Rickard said that Firpo wanted the contest held about August 20 but that he was going to ask him to make the date not later than August 1 to give him time to arrange the contest between the winner and Dempsey in September.

Men and Money Make This Bank Secure.

There are two ways of measuring the strength and standing of a bank. In the first place money resources—capital and surplus—give it Financial Strength. In the second place—and perhaps even more important—are men, the officers and directors. They give the bank character, determine and execute its policies. This is a strong bank, a helpful bank because it has ample resources, and a personnel of proven character and ability.

THE PURPOSE OF THE B. Y. P. U.

The flowers would not be very beautiful without their fragrance. The birds would not be very beautiful without their song, the trees would not be very beautiful without their leaves; neither would the world be very beautiful nor a pleasant place to live without the consecrated lives of our boys and girls.

Realizing this, a few years ago, our leaders began to think of how they could train our young folk. Someone thought of a Baptist Young People's Union. So with much prayer and thought the B. Y. P. U. sprang into life. Her's has been a rugged but a very profitable climb—the training of the minds of our boys and girls to think of the things they can do for our Master instead of the things of the world. Just as essential today it is to train our young as it was in the few days past for Uncle Sam to train our boys to fight in the great world war.

We have as young folk the biggest world battle to wage and must be guided with the Word of God and ready to fight a winning battle to serve others. We study that we may serve. What better Motto can a band of our young folk have? What mother or father could not stand four square for a plan like this?

Then let's boost an organization that has the welfare of our boys and girls so at heart—whose sole purpose is to train to serve—Let's boost the B. Y. P. U.

DAME FASHION FORGETS PUGLIST

"About the only person for whom the fashion designers have not prescribed a glass is the puglist. But for milady in the evening—well, the proper thing for her to wear is fixed. The eye-glass is in the public eye again. But it seems, a single pair of glasses for a single pair of eyes is wrong, all wrong. For Dame Fashion is to look through them as well as the wearer of them. And thereby hangs the tale of what many may be inclined to regard as the very last word in optical illusions.

"No longer is it merely an aid to vision, an unsightly accessory that has to be tolerated. No longer do folk seek out optometrists to relate their symptoms, try to read lines of pined type, gaze futilely at placards bearing futuristic designs and get prescribed a lens that merely makes things look clearer. Oh, no; indeed not. There is much more than that to be considered.

"For there has sprung into being a fashion in eyeglasses. Not only a fashion, but also a whole code of rules and regulations that dictate what kind of glasses one should wear at what kind of functions.

"The optometrist today—so the dictum has it—must be not only a modiste to the eye, fitting it with glasses that most become the particular style of facial architecture confronting him, but a psychologist as well. For instance, if you happen to be afflicted with the Gothic type of face, a countenance that is long and thin as a horse he would in all probability equip you with round lenses that impart a sleek, well-fitted appearance. And if the style of your beauty ran more to the Roric lines, you would most likely get ob-long glasses.

"For him who only needs glasses for close work, and that infrequently, the oxford style is suggested as being the most suitable. The oxfords are heavy dark-rimmed glasses that fold up like a knife. Taking them off and putting them on gives one an excellent opportunity to make effective gestures. They impart a decided air of culture and intellectuality to their wearers, and are proving popular with those persons who want to create that sort of impression.

"Moreover, they are made in a number of styles, and the metals used in them are various enough for anyone's taste. Some have elaborately chased nose-pieces of green gold; for the antiquarian and archaeologist there is a style with an Egyptian motif in the design. They are also strongly reminiscent of Cleopatra and are highly recommended for vamps posing as intellectuals.

"Women have more varieties of glasses to buy for a correct outfit than do men. They are taking in some measure to bizarre effect, matching their gowns with rims of harmonizing colors. There are also glasses with gray color scheme for those whose hair is silvering.

"Among the more interesting development in the feminine lines are lorgnettes. These glasses, which are elaborately worked out in many instances, are constructed of white gold, green gold and in rare cases, platinum and are made to resemble pendants. Worn on the end of a ribbon or a chain suspended from the neck, they could up to a very small size, but when a secret button is pressed, to, here is the lorgnette. They are distinct adornments and have the advantage of usefulness.

"For an afternoon of bargain hunting, lightweight shell-rimmed glasses with metal bridge are urged as being

Home Dress of Puffed Cotton

Beauty and Service Go Hand-in-Hand

One of the first things to do in selecting a smart bloomer frock is to secure a colorful material. Then it must be made upon simple lines, with a few tucks or so, and worn with a hat of crepe or taffeta.

Anyone would like a dress of white cotton crepe boldly figured with an apple green dotted square. Three yards are needed to make a frock like the one pictured, because it has bloomers to match. The sleeves are cut in one with the front and back of the dress and the neck is in round outline. These are small hand-run tucks at the front and back.

The three diagrams give the various stages of finishing the lower edges of the bloomers. First, they have to be gathered and made ready for the band. For the band use a straight strip of the material and cut it twice the width that the finished band is to be. Sew the ends of the band together and draw the gathers in the bloomers until they fit into the band. Then baste the right side of the band to the right side of the bloomers, as shown in Fig. I. Sew the band to the bloomers, then turn the band over to the left side, fold under the remaining raw edge and baste, as shown in Fig. II.

In Fig. III, the home dressmaker is shown how to hem the band down closely as the final stage of joining it to its lower edges of the bloomers. Of course, the band may be made of any other material desired, and often it is made of braids to supply a note of contrast to the outfit.

A large variety of materials may be used in the development of this design, because it is adaptable and exceedingly easy to make the most convenient first aids; for an hour or so over the teacups these same spectacles are dictated by the fashion makers. The oxfords serve milady as they do the men—for occasional.

Beauty and Service Go Hand-in-Hand

One of the first things to do in selecting a smart bloomer frock is to secure a colorful material. Then it must be made upon simple lines, with a few tucks or so, and worn with a hat of crepe or taffeta.

Anyone would like a dress of white cotton crepe boldly figured with an apple green dotted square. Three yards are needed to make a frock like the one pictured, because it has bloomers to match. The sleeves are cut in one with the front and back of the dress and the neck is in round outline. These are small hand-run tucks at the front and back.

The three diagrams give the various stages of finishing the lower edges of the bloomers. First, they have to be gathered and made ready for the band. For the band use a straight strip of the material and cut it twice the width that the finished band is to be. Sew the ends of the band together and draw the

Memorial Day Address Delivered To Veterans Here Decoation Day

By OWEN F. WATKINS
(Re-published by Request)

My Friends and Comrades and Honored Veterans of the Southern Confederacy: Once more our great nation has assembled to pay its tribute and respect to its heroes dead. It has been said that a thousand battles on land and sea echo and proclaim to the world the glory of their valiant deeds. Under the quiet sod or beneath the murmuring waves their bodies rest in peace, but in the destinies of men their souls keep marching on. Because of their devotion and loyalty to the cause of freedom and liberty, our lives are free. Because of their supreme sacrifice in meeting death with a smile for the cause of our democratic institutions, our nation lives. Because of their willingness and gladness to make for their cherished ideals the greatest sacrifice that can be made by man, to lay their lives down for their country, the whole world is blessed, and those institutions which they so gladly died for have been perpetuated forever in the thesis and science of government.

When we think of the many things they did, the hero hosts seem mighty in our midst. When peril threatened and the foes of the cause of freedom, humanity and liberty brought on the conquest and their country called, how gladly they made the divine sacrifice and left the primrose paths of peace to spring to arms to make their breasts a barricade against their nation's foes. No sorrow for the loved ones left behind could dim the purpose of their souls. No weariness of march or the long and dreary watch of the night could quell their hearts' desires. No horrors of the bloody battle field or the disease infested trench or gas bomb could beat their courage down.

They fought for us and for us they fell, and the smallest tribute that we can pay to their valor and glory is to pay to them our debt of reverence for their supreme sacrifice. But, my friends, as we pay our tribute to them and revere and honor the memories of the heroes of those conquests for liberty, freedom and humanity, we should not forget their loved ones left behind. No honest tear nor heartfelt sympathy can bring back to them the comfort of those loving hands now gone, or restore the music of their voices now stilled forever. Only the solemn pride of having given more than all the rest is theirs who live to weep, but to them, I would say, for the valiant sacrifice of their loved ones we are all debtors to them, and on this Memorial Day it is our duty to reconsecrate ourselves to patriotic service. Let us be the friend and brother, the son and father, of the hereaved ones left behind, and may we always so live and bear the flag of our country, as did those who now sleep in heroes graves, and ever place it upon the battlements of righteousness.

It has been said that "this day is sacred with the almost visible presence of those who have gone before us. We honor the memory of those who gave their lives in the service of their country, and those others who since the war have dropped their burdens by the wayside of life and are gone to their eternal rest. May the ceremonies of this day deepen our reverence for our dead. May we renew our pledge of loyalty to our country and our flag, and let us resolve by word and deed to emphasize the privilege and duty of patriotism."

The veterans of the World War have been distinctly honored on this occasion by being joined in the services by the surviving veterans of the Southern Confederacy. There are not many of them left to recount the reminiscences of those chivalrous days that tried men's souls, for their numbers which a score of years ago were in countless legion now have dwindled to a meager handful, and no doubt e'er another memorial day has come and gone some of those who have assembled here will have passed into eternity. Yet, when I watch those men in whose youthful locks of '61 can

The north today recognizes the futility of political coercion and they en-clasp hands with their southern kins-men over Mason and Dixon lines in recognition of a state's supremacy in the control of its own civic affairs. This great constellation of states working in harmony to the Constitu-tion of the United States, and yet each retaining distinctly an un-restricted province over its internal con-ditions, is but an admission of the righteousness of the protest recorded by the Confederacy. May their posterity be awakened to the vital im-port of their struggle, and when these men who have already crossed that incorrigible chasm which forever separates the glorious achievements of manhood and vigor from the contented reveries of old age and feebleness and are now calmly resting in the fast rec-eding shades of senility, have passed on to that silent beyond, may we still prelong into the mystic future those immortal principles for which they fought on Shiloh's bloody battle field.

It is but right and fit on occasions of this kind that we should know the purposes that stirred men's souls and caused them to offer and give their lives to their country. I have said be-fore that patriotism is as inherent in human action as religion or character themselves, and to you honored veter-ans of the Confederacy, may I say that amongst our comrades in the re-cent World War we found on every side our sons and grandsons fighting for their flag and country in the cause of humanity. We are glad today that the Civil War was settled as it was, and that the American flag is the flag of both those opposing forces who for four years sprung at each others throats in willingness to give to this, our country, their lives.

On occasions of this kind I wish that we could be moved with the same amount of deep pathos that imbued the soul and spirit of that English bard, Thomas Gray, when he stood in the little village country church-ward and said:

"Can storied urn or animated bust
Back to its mansion call the fleeting breath?
Can Honour's voice provoke the silent dust,
Or Flattery soothe the dull cold ear of death?"

"Perhaps in this neglected spot is laid Some heart once pregnant with celestial fire;
Hands, that the rod of empire might
have sway'd,
Or waked to ecstasy the living lyre.

"But Knowledge to their eyes her ample page
Rich with the spoils of time did
ne'er unroll;
Chill Penury repress'd their noble
rage,
And froze the genial current of the soul.

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark unfathom'd caves of
ocean bear;
Full many a flower is born to blush

dauntless breast
The little tyrant of his fields with-

Some mute inglorious Milton here may

My friends, this sublime picture of those who were content to pursue the even tenor of their way in life's sequestered vale, brings to us a vision of that great day when the earth and the sea shall give up its dead and the righteous and just shall assemble around the great throne of Our Maker, such men as Thomas Gray pictured will be there and will receive at the hands of Him who rules the destiny of men the benediction of "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

These will be welcomed in Paradise, but it is my deep conviction that on that great day the shout of Hosanna and the angel's sweetest song shall be inspired by those men who met death upon the field of battle for their ideals, for the cause of freedom, liberty and humanity, that we might live, and passed on to sleep until judgment day. These, my friends, will be the innumerable hosts gathered there to whom the Great Jehovah can say, you have won the honor, admiration and respect of those others who were permitted, by your divine sacrifice, to live in peace and prosperity.
I thank you.

name by Kathleen Norris, is scheduled for a 3-day run at the National Theatre, with Monte Blue and Irene Rich heading a distinguished cast of players.

In book form, the story enjoyed enormous vogue, being hailed as one of the most striking novels of the past decade. It deals with a young and pretty woman tied down to an old unlovable curmudgeon of an old man, who is an invalid and needs constant care. As a result, the woman is deprived of all the joys and riches held by life, and feels youth slipping down the retrograde till she meets the man of her heart.

In casting the players, Director
Jack Conway and Producer Harry Rapt sifted and considered every star of note, to get true characterizations. Monte Blue and Irene Rich were the pick.

The picture brings out the wretchedness of a loveless marriage. Lucretia, still young and pretty, finds herself cheated; the wife of a confirmed invalid who bullies her. An extra stolen dose of opiate administered by himself ends the life of her husband —and she is free, but only to find herself embroiled in a triangle so hectic that her former difficulties seem as nothing.

How two women battle for the love of a man, and how fate steps in at the eleventh hour, staging a spectacular forest fire to settle the drama, is shown in this Warner Brothers Classic of the Screen.

It is said that no pains have been spared to make "Lucretia Lombard" as great a picture as it was a great book. Critics who have already viewed the picture say it is a triumph in every respect.

Monte Blue and Irene Rich will be remembered everywhere for their brilliant work in "Brass", the screen adaptation of Charles G. Norris, who is the husband of the author of "Lucretia Lombard."

Others in the case are Marc Mc-Dermont, Alec B. Francis, John Roche, Lucy Beaumont, Otto Hoffman and Norma Schearer.

Mrs. Cora Ferguson, candidate for re-election for County School Superintendent, was in the city Saturday on business and to see a local optometrist about her eyes.

KAREM SHRINERS REACH KANSAS CITY TODAY

With the big steam siren going and the Karem band playing, over 100 Karem Shriners from this section left Sunday out of Waco for Kansas City where they will attend the national Shrine convention this week. The special left at 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

The departure from Waco was preceded by a parade of Shriners and their wives, headed by the Karem Shrine band. Cars which they occupied were decorated in Shrine colors. Members of the Karem delegation will be carried to points of interest in Kansas City in the "Special," the miniature train which created much excitement at the San Francisco convention. A number of stunts have been provided by Karem. This miniature train will play a prominent role in these. The band accompanied the party and will play during the convention, always in the lead of Karem stunts.

W. F. Quebe was in charge of the special train and Potentate E. D. Burchett, well known in Mexia, will head Karem in the convention.

The party reached Kansas City at 7 o'clock this morning.

MANUAL TRAINING IN THE HIGH SCHOOL

By G. W. EVANS
In this age of building, inventions, and experiments—an age in which dreamers are trying to work out dreams of great things—it has become necessary for schools and colleges to introduce courses such as agriculture, home economics, manual training and many others to meet the requirements of the children. The directing heads of high schools and colleges realized a long time ago that the child could not be fitted to the school, but that the school must fit the needs of the child. Thus, we have the reason why manual training and other subjects were introduced in the curricula.

Manual training was first offered to the boys of Mexia in the fall of 1921. The equipment consisted of five work benches, with complete sets of individual tools, and five drawing tables with the necessary drawing instruments. On completion of the new high school the board had installed the following equipment: Seventeen new work benches, bench tools for general equipment, five of the most modern wood-working machines, and eight drawing tables. With this equipment the boys of the first and second year classes have constructed several handy and useful articles, a few of which are: Taborets, waste paper baskets, magazine stands, shoe shine boxes, telephone desk and chair, radio sets, tool cases, finishing room, and a magazine rack for the Mexia Public Library.

The aim in teaching manual training is threefold. First, we try to interest the boy who is a dreamer, the fellow who really does not know just what he wishes to do in life, but who has great ideas that he would like to work out. In other words we try to help him find himself.

The following story illustrates the point: One of the soldiers in the late war was a failure before he went into service; he was injured during the fighting and was returned to America and sent to a vocational school. Here he began working out his dreams and today he is one of the highest paid goldsmiths in the city of Washington.

The second type cannot afford to go to college, is going out into life's work. To this type of boy we hope to give an idea of simple joinery, general construction, and an appreciation of the different wood finishes. He should be able to construct and repair most anything around the home, should be able to select the best building material and furniture.

By doing a course in manual training the third type of boy gets an insight into the several engineering courses offered by colleges and is certainly in position to make a selection that is best suited to his desires and ambitions, when he must make a choice of his life's work.

A course in agricultural mechanics will be offered in the near future, especially for the boys of the rural districts. This course will cover the building and repair of farm necessities.

The work in mechanical drawing prepares the boy for engineering courses if he goes to college and if he does not it will be useful to him in that he will be prepared to make drawings and read plans of most anything he may wish.

Meats we sell comply with all laws of sanitation, you should care for your health's sake. Tidwell's.

GREAT CAST APPEARS IN "THREE WEEKS"

Probably no motion picture cast ever before was selected with so much care as that of "Three Weeks," the Goldwyn studios' film version of Elinor Glyn's famous love story, coming to the National Theatre Monday.

Mrs. Glyn herself came to the Goldwyn studios from London to assist in the filming of her novel, and collaborated with Alan Crosland, the director, in selecting the players.

First came the Queen—one of the most famous characters of modern fiction. She must be beautiful, dignified, mysterious, subtle, with a mixture of fierce Slavic passion, and the repression of a woman worn down by cruelty—but above all, a regal, commanding Queen.

Aileen Pringle, a little known screen actress then, was chosen for the role—not for any "commercial value" her name might carry—but because she was the living, breathing Queen as described by Mrs. Glyn in her novel.

Then "Paul"—tall, handsome, blond, typically English—was to be chosen. The choice—Conrad Nagel, prominent screen leading man, selected not only because he fit the physical requirements of the role, but because he is recognized also as one of the outstanding actors of the screen.

The lesser members of the cast were chosen with equal care. All of the other characters of the story are European, and nearly all are Slavic. Mr. Crosland and Mrs. Glyn insisted that the players look their parts, and considered scores of actors, both great and unknown, for each role.

John Sampson, noted character actor, was signed as the dissolute, brutal Balkan king. Stuart Holmes and Robert Cain, both finished film players, were cast as "Petrovich" and "Verchoff," the king's unscrupulous aides.

Mitchell Lewis, Dale Fuller and Nigel de Brullier were selected to play the native servants of the Queen, and lend their ability to minor but very difficult roles.

Claire de Lorez, noted screen beauty was brought to Los Angeles from New York to play the part of Mitzi, wild, passionate gypsy girl who charms the king, and indirectly causes the death of the Queen.

H. Reeve-Smith, for years a prominent stage actor of New York, was lured to the screen for the first time in "Three Weeks" and plays a relatively small part as Sir Charles, father of Paul.

Helen Dunbar plays Lady Henrietta, Paul's mother. Joan Standing will be seen as "Isabella," gawky English girl with whom Paul has a "puppy love" affair; Charles Green, as Thompson, Paul's valet, and William Haines, as the Curate, fill out the cast.

Alan Crosland, Jr., five-year-old son of the "Three Weeks" director, appears in one scene as the son of Paul and the Queen.

Well Known Business Man Freed of Twenty Year's of Suffering.

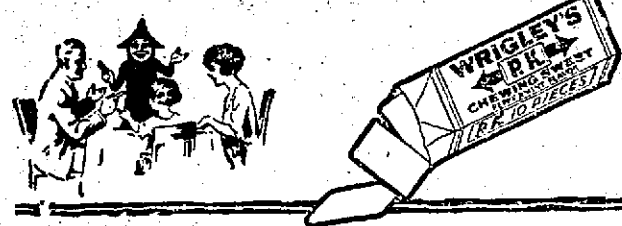

A. W. TAYLOR

That the sensational new medicine Karnak has relieved him of twenty years of suffering and restored his health after all other means had failed is the astonishing statement of Mr. A. W. Taylor, well known business man residing at 816 East Tenth Street, Oklahoma City.

"I think it is my duty to let the public know what Karnak has done for me," said Mr. Taylor in making public his experience. "For twenty years before I got this remarkable medicine I had not seen a well day, and I frequently had to leave my business and go home to bed. Nothing I ate seemed to digest properly, I was continually bothered with terrific headaches, sluggish liver and constipation, and severe pains extending from my right side to my back kept me in constant torment. I had about made up my mind to undergo an operation to see if it would help me, but a friend got me started to taking Karnak and I would not take anything on earth for what the medicine has done for me. My digestion is splendid, the other troubles are also gone, and I feel better than I have in years and years. I consider Karnak worth its weight in gold."

Mr. Taylor's statement is typical of hundreds of others being made about the famous new medicine. Karnak is sold in Mexia by the Mexia Drug Co.—(Adv.)
